Wednesday, April 25 | 3:00–5:00 PM

Tower Court A

Using the National Longitudinal Studies for Your Research — Elizabeth Cooksey (The Ohio State University)

Objectives: This workshop will introduce both new and experienced users to the various National Longitudinal Surveys and the wide array of research projects that can be undertaken with these data. For example, the oldest of the NLSY79 respondents are now in their sixties and provide researchers with opportunities to follow the same respondents over close to 40 years of their lives with 27 survey rounds! Within this workshop we will provide information on new areas of data collection and provide attendees with a tutorial on how to access the data and create a data download. Come and join us and have your questions answered by project PIs Elizabeth Cooksey (NLSY79 Child and Young Adult), Deborah Carr (NLSY79), and user services experts!
